Parents, Families, and Friends of the Class of 1983

Welcome to our beautiful campus. It is an honor and a pleasure to present to you the 1983 University of Minnesota, Morris graduating class. This is our 20th commencement ceremony. Including the men and women here tonight, there are now over 3,800 UMM graduates. We are proud of each of them, and tonight especially, of those seated in front of you.

Tonight's graduates are, we believe, prepared to make significant contributions to our world through a variety of endeavors. The liberal arts foundation that has been forged over the past few years should provide a solid beginning for future rewards of both a personal and professional nature.

The extent of our success in providing learning experiences for these graduates depends a great deal upon their backgrounds. I know that each of you present tonight has made some contribution large or small, material or otherwise, to these graduating seniors. Your support is deeply and genuinely appreciated by us, and most certainly, by them. Please come back and visit us often.

Best regards,

NATIONAL ANTHEM Led by Ralph E. Williams, University of Minnesota, Morris faculty member in music, retired

Oh, say can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro' the perilous flight,
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof thro' the night, that our flag was still there.
Oh, say does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

A MOMENT OF SILENCE WILL BE OBSERVED

AMERICAN ACADEMIC APPAREL

American academic apparel goes back in its essential features to the middle ages. The oldest northern European universities grew out of church schools. Both faculty and students were regarded as part of the clergy and wore clerical garb based upon monastic dress daily, rather than merely on special occasions.

The head covering developed from the skull cap worn to protect tonsured heads in cold weather. In the universities, the skull cap acquired a point on top, which gradually evolved into a tassel. In Europe the bonnet with tassel is still worn, but has been replaced in America by the mortar board with tassel.

The hood was originally worn over the head in bad weather and otherwise dropped onto the shoulders like a monk's cowl. First worn by both faculty and students, the hood became restricted to graduates in the early sixteenth century. Today the hood is lined with the official colors of the alma mater. In addition, the borders of most hoods are colored according to the scholarly field of the wearer. Some hood border colors are: maize (agriculture), white (arts, letters, humanities), drab (business), copper (economics), light blue (education), brown (fine arts), crimson (journalism), purple (law), lemon (library science), pink (music), apricot (nursing), silver gray (speech), dark blue (philosophy), sage green (physical education), salmon pink (public health), golden yellow (science), cream (social science), citron (social work), and scarlet (theology).

The gown seems to have been borrowed from the Benedictine monk's habit. In the middle ages, undergraduates, bachelors and masters could be distinguished by the simplicity or elaborateness of their gowns. The master's gowns were often furred, a decoration surviving as the three velvet bars now used on the voluminous sleeves of the doctoral gown.

Included in this program are the names of candidates eligible for graduation at the time of printing. The degree is officially granted after the final grades have been recorded and successful completion of all graduation requirements has been verified.
